Will a customer's home insurance policy be affected if they have not told us that they are working from home?

No, providing that work is clerical only. If the work is non-clerical or involves receiving business visitors to the address, please contact our Broker Support Team.

If a customer is not presently able to return to their home address (e.g. they have been quarantined, are unable to travel from abroad, have a delay in completion of a house sale, or are self-isolating at another property) and their home may be left unoccupied for over the 30 or 60 day limit on their policy, are they still covered?

Yes. Where it is possible to have a trusted friend or neighbour regularly check on the property to ensure it is secure, and if possible to turn the water stopcock off, this should be encouraged.

If a customer's property has suffered damage (from a fire, flood or other named peril) and it's uninhabitable and they are self-isolating, will alternative accommodation still be found?

Yes, we will continue to provide alternative accommodation wherever possible.

If a customer's house move has been postponed or cancelled, can their details be changed at no cost?

Yes, we will amend the address back to the previous residence, or cancel the policy if cover is no longer required, and waive any admin or cancellation fees accordingly.

If a customer has extra people staying at their address, are their contents covered?

We accept that our customers may have additional visitors staying at their property during periods of isolation, and we do not need to be informed of this. Contents of visitors will be covered as per the terms of the policy (e.g. where Visitor's Personal Belongings cover is provided). Visitors may also have cover under their own insurance policy for their contents whilst temporarily removed from their home.

Will home insurance cover the cost of a deep clean to a customer's property should it become contaminated by COVID-19?

No, COVID-19 is not an insured peril and therefore the policy will not pick up the cost of a deep clean.
